AGE

Before being admitted to the third year of the Joint Course, students must be at least twenty years of age, as the Diploma, G.R.S.M. (London), will not be issued to any one under the age of twenty-one years.

THE COURSE ITSELF

The First Two Years.

The Course, beginning in the September Term, will occupy three years.

During the first two years, the student will pursue the ordinary full-course curriculum of the Royal Academy of Music or the Royal College of Music (see Prospectus of each Institution).

Students must choose a Principal Study which they may not change during the first two years without the permission of the Principal in the case of Royal Academy students and of the Director in the case of Royal College students. At the beginning of the first of their three years all students should take advice as to their choice of a Second Study. Students at the end of each of the first two years must show sufficient merit in the annual examinations of their respective Institutions to satisfy the Principal and/or the Director of their ability to go on to the following year of the Course.

Note.—In accordance with the rules laid down by the Board of Education, students are not permitted to undertake any regular part-time work during their three years' Course, as this is incompatible with a "Full-time" Training Course.

The Third Year.

The third year of the Joint Course will be devoted to training for Music Teaching. The special curriculum of this year embraces a Course of Lectures, Demonstration Lessons, Discussion Classes and Practical Teaching, both independently and under supervision, and one lesson of 40 minutes weekly in Principal Study. Students are only admitted to the Special Curriculum of the Third Year after an examination held by the Principal and Director together. This examination will test the students' ability at Harmony, Improvising and Sight Reading.

Students who possess the necessary qualifications, and who have completed three or more years as full-time students of the Royal Academy of Music or the Royal College of Music with one continuous Principal Study, may, during their fourth year at either Institution, enter on the special course of training in teaching without taking a principal study, provided they have the permission of the Principal and the Director, granted after special examination.

In the First Term of the Third Year there will be Lectures on Psychology, Aural Training, Paper Work, and on the application and development of Technique and Repertoire in Pianoforte, Strings and Class Singing. The students, whatever their principal study, must attend all these lectures.

Every student of the Course at either Institution will be responsible for the instrumental teaching of individual pupils during the whole of the Third Year. Every student will also be responsible for the teaching of Aural Training and Singing Classes during the year. Arrangements are also made for the students to have at least one period a week of practice-teaching in an L.C.C. Elementary School during the year.

In order that the student may have the opportunity of showing his or her natural ability in teaching, in the first Term these lessons will be given entirely by the student, without supervision, but the Principal and Director hope the students will not hesitate to seek advice in any difficulty that may arise in their teaching. The secretaries of the Course at each Institution will arrange interviews if necessary. All students will be supervised in this work during the Second and Third Terms.

In the Second Term of the Third Year there will be Ten Lectures on Musical History, which all students must attend. According to the Principal Subject taken by the student, there will be classes in experimental teaching, conducted by professors.

In the Third Term of the Third Year there will be ten Lectures in Musical History which all students must attend.

Classes in Experimental Teaching and the Teaching of junior pupils, given under supervision, will be continued as in the Second Term. The Weekly Discussion Classes will be held this Term, and will include occasional short papers written by the students of the Course, the subjects of discussion being the wider aspects of music teaching and of education in general.

EXAMINATION

At the end of the Third Year, in July, an examination will be held for the Special Diploma, "GRADUATE OF THE ROYAL SCHOOLS OF MUSIC, LONDON," and candidates who satisfy the examiners will have the exclusive right to append the letters "G.R.S.M., London," to their names.

This examination, on the work of the third year, will be partly per scripta and partly vivâ voce; it will be under the supervision of the Principal and the Director with expert assistance by Professors of the R.A.M. and the R.C.M. Students must satisfy the Board of Examiners in both parts of the Examination.

Only those students who have attended 75% of the Lectures, Classes and Practical Teaching in each subject will be permitted to enter for this examination.

PART I.: PAPER-WORK

All candidates will be required to work papers on the Teaching of Instrumental and Class subjects in schools.

Questions will be set dealing with the problems, in psychology and practice, of teaching in general, and, specifically, with the teaching of technique and repertoire, of Paper-work and History of Music. The questions will also test the candidates' own general musical knowledge.

PART II.: VIVÂ VOCE

Candidates will be required to give a demonstration lesson or lessons to individual children or to classes of children on any of the subjects dealt with in their Course, and to answer questions arising out of these lessons on technique, interpretation, repertoire, etc. Candidates will be expected to show some ability in the teaching of allied subjects other than their own principal subject.

Before the Certificate for the Diploma, "G.R.S.M., London," is issued, candidates must have passed either the L.R.A.M. or the A.R.C.M. in their Principal Subject. Note.—Students cannot, in any school post, claim the Graduate Burnham Scale until they have received the Certificate for the Diploma G.R.S.M. (London).

FEES FOR THE COURSE

During the Third Year the Fees for the Course are £14 14s. per term, which comprise a Principal Study and the Training Course. Students who wish to take an extra Second Study must get the permission of the Principal or Director to do so, and must pay the requisite additional fee. The Fee for the Special Examination at the end of the Course for the Diploma "G.R.S.M., London," is £5 5s.
